

WOMAN TOLD MOB'S PLAN

Put Danville's Mayor on His Guard by a Night Visit to Him.

GREAT ANXIETY PREVAILS

Military All Absent and Another Attempt May be Made to Lynch Negro.

(By Associated Press.)
DANVILLE, VA., July 20.—Judge A. M. Aiken, of the Corporation Court, has ordered a special grand jury empaneled for the purpose of investigating the attempt of the mob last night to take the prisoner, Roy Seal, accused of the murder of Congressman James L. Amos, of the Southern Railway, last Friday from the city jail. The jury is composed of E. G. Mosely, A. W. Doughty, L. G. Martin, W. P. Hodgnett, W. D. Cook, J. R. Swain, George W. Robertson, H. D. Guerrant and N. A. Fitzgerald.

LEADER CAPTURED.
Daniel Talley, one of the mob leaders, was arrested last night and placed in jail. Talley led his forces against the little band of officers stationed in the alley, but the men composing the mob quailed before the determined stand taken by the police. Talley dashed against the officers alone and was captured and disarmed. He was afterwards released by order of the Mayor, who stated that he made the order thinking it would probably have a good effect on the mob. The Mayor was apprised of the fact that the mob was assembling by the officers at midnight after the executive had prepared to retire.

WOMAN TELLS PLANS.
He granted her an interview, and was told the plans of the mob leaders. The woman is the wife of one of the mob leaders. The Mayor would not disclose her name. The officers expect another attempt on the part of the mob. All of the military of the city is in St. Louis. The Mayor is determined that the prisoner shall not be taken. An ominous pervaded the city during the day, but an undercurrent of anxiety was apparent. The vigilance of the officers was redoubled to-night.

FLUVANNA VETERANS.

Their Annual Reunion to be Held July 30th.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILMINGTON, VA., July 20.—The Confederate veterans of Fluvanna County held their annual reunion at Fairmyra on Saturday, July 20th. As usual on such occasions some prominent speaker is expected to be on hand to address the veterans. Refreshments will be served on the grounds, and everything possible will be done to add to the comfort and enjoyment of the old soldiers.

Protracted services will begin at Lyle's Church the fifth Sunday. The pastor, Rev. J. E. Watkins, will be assisted by Dr. Weston Bruner, of Richmond. Dr. Sparks W. Melton, of Georgia, will also be in attendance.

Miss Carrie Campbell, of King William, is spending the month of July with Miss Lizzie McGee.

Misses Bessie and Katie Ellett and Miss Evelyn Bell are attending a house party at the country home of Mr. R. P. Valentine, near Charlottesville.

Dr. John W. Loving, of Kentucky, is visiting relatives in Fluvanna.

DEATH OF MR. COSEY.

Passes Away After Long Illness. Painter Under Arrest.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PETER, VA., July 20.—Willis Cossey, who had resided in Amherst county for a long time, died after a long illness in Lynchburg last week. He was another one of the old Confederate soldiers who have passed over the river when left many relatives and friends in Amherst county.

Paul Painter, who was charged last April with criminally assaulting a young girl, Sarah F. Clark, on Irish Creek, and who has been escaping arrest, was last week arrested near Onancock by Sheriff Sterrett, of Rockbridge county, and lodged in the Lexington jail awaiting trial.

Messrs. Ray and Mitchell have begun to run and express wagon, starting at Pedlar Mills, running to Beach Station on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, a distance of four miles, making connection with both the east and westbound passenger trains.

THE ADDICKS' BARREL.

Rumors It Has Been Refilled Carries Joy to Delaware.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILMINGTON, July 20.—The story that has been circulated to the effect that J. Edward Addicks was without funds and could not carry on the coming campaign was shattered last night, when it was announced that he had recently sold a gold mine for $600,000. Mr. Addicks was out of the city and could not be seen in reference to the rumor, or else intended to draw the files to the sugar barrel. Mr. Addicks's close friends merely winked an eye when he was interrogated, and added: "See the Senator." If the story shall prove true, many heavy hearts will be lightened, as it was feared Mr. Addicks would be unable to make a "vigorous campaign."

FARMVILLE DISTRICT

CONFERENCE MEETS

A Very Interesting Session of

That Body in Progress at Chase City.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHASE CITY, VA., July 20.—The Farmville District Conference assembled here yesterday, Rev. J. D. Hank presiding, in the chair. The conference was organized for business by the election of J. E. Clarke, of Cumberland, as secretary.

The morning and afternoon sessions were given reports from the various churches on the district, most of them being of an encouraging character. From all the charges there was reported a remarkable development of temperance, or anti-whiskey sentiment, particularly in Southern Halifax and Western Lunenburg, where the traffic in ardent spirits was formerly quite heavy.

Rev. T. J. Taylor, of Crewe, preached the opening sermon, which was able and instructive, and based on the text found in Prov. xix: 20. Last night a large congregation listened to a strong gospel message by Rev. Thomas R. Reeves, of Clarksville.

The attendance at conference is larger than usual, nearly all the delegates both clerical and lay, being present, and many visitors from the surrounding counties. Rev. James Cannon, Jr., D. D., of Blacksburg, arrived this afternoon, and made an interesting report of his flourishing college.

Professors William Holmes Davis, of Randolph-Macon Institute, Danville, and E. Sumter Smith, of Bedford Academy, addressed the conference this afternoon. The last two Christian Endeavor Societies, Professor R. S. Seeds, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Charles B. Hanford, of Impenra.

The Daisy Quartette, of New York, and Miss Grace Undergraff, of Ohio, will assist in the musical exercises. The features are advertised for each day. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday Rev. Sam Woodson will conduct the devotional services. Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted to the cause of prohibition.

Methodist Episcopal Church of the First, which has been in session two days at Newsoms, Southampton county, adjourned to-night, the closing sermon being preached by Rev. J. W. Stiff, of Portsmouth.

The following delegates were elected to represent the district at the State Conference, which will meet in November, in Lynchburg: Lee Britt, Suffolk; Richard Howard, Newsoms; W. D. Folk, Smithfield; P. L. Crocker, Pointblank; Alternates: Hon. John C. Parker, Franklin; George W. Jones, Berkley; E. A. Norrison, Smithfield, and W. R. Vincent, Capron.

The Nanomond county board of supervisors to-day awarded the contract for the building of an iron bridge over the river at Reid's Ferry, to the Virginia Bridge and Iron Company, of Roanoke, Price, $1,600.

Alleged Murderer.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., July 20.—Andrew Torrell, colored, well known police officer of this city, has been arrested in the city jail awaiting the arrival of proper authorities from Prince George's county, where he is wanted in connection with the murder of James Smith, two months ago. He denies his guilt.

A MAN DROWNED IN THE ALLEGHENY

Claiborne Cralle Loses Life While Swimming and His Companions Have Narrow Escape.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CLAYTON, Pa., July 20.—Claiborne Cralle, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Cralle, of Blackstone, was drowned Sunday afternoon while bathing in the Allegheny river at Pittsburgh, Pa.

The young man, with two of his friends, Messrs. Lee and Chaffy, who were his fellow-students at the Electrical Westinghouse, of Pittsburgh, took a car out of the city to the Oakmont boat-house in search of a cool place. On reaching the river they decided to take a bath. Cralle remarked that he was not feeling well, but went to the opposite shore, leaving his companions on the bank. This was considered a very fine swim, as the river at that point is wide and was also swollen by the recent rains. He rested only a few minutes, and then started to swim back to the shore. In the meantime, in forty feet of shore he threw up his hands for help, calling out that his legs were cramped. His companions swam out to his rescue, reaching him as he was coming up the third time. They succeeded in getting him to the shore, but he was unable to get up. He began to rally and showed that he knew what was happening, when suddenly they stepped from solid land into a sand pit over twenty feet deep. Cralle, as if in great pain, threw up his arms and sank along with his two companions. When Sidney Lee came up and saw Chaffy, but no sign of his other friend, he cried out, "God, he didn't come up," and he and Chaffy began diving for him. They made heroic efforts to save him, but in vain. They went in after him again and again, but he never came up. Cralle's strength, which had nearly failed him when he first sank in the pit, now utterly failed him, and he, too, went down exhausted.

In the meanwhile some spectators hurried to the help, and succeeded in raising the body of Chaffy, but he was now under water, but still living. Chaffy soon recovered consciousness, but Lee was worked on over an hour before he showed signs of life. Cralle's body was found more than an hour's search. Three drowned, and one was tried to revive him, though they knew it was a hopeless task.

The superintendent of the Westinghouse shops appointed a committee of students to accompany his remains to his home in Virginia, but W. H. Cralle, the young man's brother, who is in business in Pittsburgh, deemed this unnecessary, and himself conducted the body to Blackstone. The interment took place in Lake View cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. H. Harris, Scott Rhy, Horace Hardaway, Stanley Crowe, Patterson Fitzgerald and Richard Irby, who were among his best friends in Blackstone.

Claiborne Cralle had been a student since June, 1903, at the Westinghouse. One of the superintendents, in speaking of his career there, said he considered him the most popular apprentice in the whole corps. For some length of time he was the younger of all the apprentices, and he was given the title of "Laddie." His friends say he always gave the right hand of fellowship to the "new boys."

The death of this young man has caused the profoundest sorrow in his family, and he was just entering on his manhood. He possessed those qualities which won for him many friends, and distinguished him as a manly and noble youth.
